Open Letter On Gun Control

An Open Letter to Senators Dodd, Tydings, Kennedy and the Ada:

From a law-abiding, homeowning, tax - paying citizen's point of view, your blind insistence on gun control and/or gun confiscation legislation, makes it quite obvious that you refuse to believe the truism: "People Kill People." A gun is only ONE of many instruments used by people to kill people.

Did Cain use a gun to kill Abel? Did Samson slay 10,000 men with a gun? Did guns kill the many thousands of Americans who died on the highways last year? Did guns burn Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, and Newark? Did guns rape 30,000 innocent women last year?

Why is it that short-sighted politicians insist on confiscation of the instruments used in criminal acts, instead of the logical, sensible approach -- punishment of criminals? Would confiscation of all crowbars, hammers, hacksaws and other burglary tools have any effect on the illegal acts of burglars? Did Federal prohibition stop people from drinking liquor? Ha relaws that forbid possession of dope, halted the sorry traffic of this mind, body and soul killer?

One of the most hideous crimes known to man is the illegal act of forcible RAPE. If you politicians would CUT-OFF the Constitutional rights of all American citizens to own guns, just because criminals use them illegally . . . if you would CUT-OFF the sale of guns and ammunition to law-abiding homeowners and sportsmen . . . then, all red - blooded, "REAL MALE" American MEN would like to ask you just one simple question?

Would you illogical reasoning cause you to prescribe the same remedy to stop forcible RAPE?

ASC Election Is Explained

Ballots (soon will be mailed to agricultural producers known to be eligible to vote in Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee elections, according to Appomattox County ASC Committee Chairman J. P. Alvis, Jr.

He said any resident of the county who is eligible to take part in a farm program administered as ASCS is eligible to vote in the Community committee elections to be held the third week in September. This applies without regard to sex, race, color, religion, or rational origin.

"Our list of known eligible voters is available for public inspection at the ASCS office ASC Chairman said. "Our goal is to get a vote from each farmer on that list. I hope they will cooperate with us toward that objective."

He pointed out there may be agricultural producers as tenants, operators, tenants, or sharecroppers – who are eligible to vote but are not on the eligible voters' list. "We invite those who may be eligible voters to check at the Appomattox County ASCS office, Appomattox, Va. If they are eligible, we will add their names to the list and they will receive ballots.

Almost every agricultural producer in the county is an eligible voter, according to the ASC Committee Chairman. "For instance, if he produced a crop eligible for price support, he is an eligible voter. He doesn't necessarily have to actually apply for price support, so long as he has a crop which was eligible for price support," said Mr. Alvis.

"If he has cropland in any of the various retirement or diversion programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, he is an eligible voter. Or if he could have participated in the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) for installing soil and water conservation practices, he is an eligible voter in the ASCS community committee elections. Again, I point out that participation in the programs is not the determining factor; what counts is whether a producer was eligible to participate in any ASCS program". he continued. "If so, he or she is eligible to vote."

The Pastor Speaks

"THE FLOOD"
Hebrews 11:7

". . . Noah . . . prepared an ark to the saving of his house."

In the days of Noah's flood, everyone perished except Noah and his house. That righteous man and his family were safe in the ark. All the others "missed the boat". In the past few days our hearts have been stirred emotionally because of the floods that have hit the Old Dominion. We can feel the heartache that has plagued many of the people, even in our neighborhood. There are some people, even in our church, that have lost loved ones in the flood. In spite of Noah's preaching in his day, they actually saw him constructing that great ship, and in spite of this the sinners of his day deliberately disregarded his warning and went right on in their unbelief. They failed to heed God's threat of coming judgment. I understand that a few days ago some of the people were warned that the rivers were rising and that floods were impending. Some of the people refused to believe and stayed in their homes and perished. They refused to believe and so they perished. So it is with Noah's day and so it is today.

Today many are lost because they have not entered "the Ark of Salvation" through faith in Christ Jesus. Jesus said "I am the door, by me if any man enter in he shall be saved". (John 10:9) Even as God said to Noah "Come thou and all thine house into the ark". So the Lord Jesus says "Come unto me all ye that are burdened and heavy laden, and I will give ye rest." (Matt. 11:28). Many people today, as a few days ago, refused to believe that the "flood" of God's judgment is coming. But the scripture says "For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came, and took them all way; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Matt. 24:38,39.

My friend, have you entered into God's ark, the Lord Jesus Christ? Have you received Him? Would you not now say, "Lord Jesus, I realize I am a sinner. I believe all that the Bible says about you and knowing this I personally receive thee as my Saviour, trusting thy shed blood that was shed for me." My friend if you'll do this you will not "miss the boat." If you "miss the boat" of God's salvation, you'll never reach heaven's shore.

"Come to the Saviour,

Make no delay,
Here is His Word,
He's shown us the way.
Here in our midst,
He's standing today,
Tenderly saying,

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THE SECRET

Lesson for August 31, 1969

Background Scripture: Judges 2 through 3:6; 5 through 7; 8: 33-35; 17:1-6; 21:25.
Devotional Reading: Ecclesiastes 3:1-11.

Several years ago Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy visited Israel and went to see the Memorial of Witness and Warning in Jerusalem. The monument recalled the horrors of Nazi persecution and Bishop Kennedy reviled at these reminders. Surely by the time had come for these things to be forgotten! Then his attention was caught by an inscription which quoted the words of an eighteenth century Jewish philosopher: "Forgetfulness prolongs the exile. Remembrance is the secret of redemption."

Reliving The Past

Philosopher George Santayana said something in a similar vein: "Those who forget the past are condemned to relive it." There is much to be learned from the mistakes and sins of the past, but men tend to forget so quickly and easily. Instead of learning from the past, we relive them over and over again. Each time Israelites. The circumstances of their story were constantly changing, but the central issues seemed to stay the same. Nowhere is this more evident than in the book of Judges. Again and again within its pages we find the same story reenacted with only the characters changing with the passage of time.

The Vicious Cycle

As the writer of Judges saw it, because the Israelites forsook God, he allowed their enemies to harass them. In their suffering the people often came to their senses and returned to God, as we are told, "The Lord was moved to pity by their groaning . . ." It was then that God would "raise up" judges to save them.

These men were not "judges" in the way that we usually think of that word. They were men and women to whom God gave special abilities and powers in order to help his people. Recognized as heroes of the faith, and divinely-appointed leaders, these men were eventually looked to for local judgement and administration. Some of them had public careers of some duration, but most appeared in a time of need and crisis and then disappeared from public view.

Sometimes it seemed that the people had learned a lesson, but eventually: "Whenever the judge died, they turned back and behaved worse than their fathers . . ." Thus, the whole book of Judges seemed to be a vicious cycle:

- the people of Israel do what is evil
- their enemies plunder them and make them suffer
- moved to pity by their plight, God sends them a leader to help and save them
- saved, the people turn back and become worse than before!

Forgetfulness Prolongs

Is this so hard for us to understand? Do we wonder why the Israelites kept making the same mistakes repeatedly? Doesn't it seem strange that they should have forgotten so easily what God taught them?

Yet, don't we find that same cycle in our own lives? We too keep making the same mistakes and sins, keep forgetting the lessons of the past. We know better but we forget, and forgetfulness prolongs the misery. Our pattern is not so different:

- We disregard the will of God
- Our disobedience gets us into difficulty
- In the midst of our trouble we remember God and cry out
- God hears and answers us, sending us help
- We quickly forget the lesson and resume our old ways.

Ah yes, "resistance is the secret of redemption."

Questions & Answers
On Social Security

Send your questions to: Questions and Answers, Social Security Office, P. O. Box 2496, Lynchburg, Virginia 24501

Q – I am a woman, born on July 11, 1908. How many quarters will I need to qualify for social security benefits?

A – You will need 19 quarters, 4 3/4 years of work covered by social security.

Q – My wife has been mentally ill for four years. The State hospital where she is committed advised me to file a claim for disability benefits, which I did, and my wife's benefits are being paid. But my social security people said my seven year old daughter was not eligible because she was not dependent on my wife. Did the last changes in the social security law alter this rle?

A – Yes. Effective with the month of February 1968, a child is deemed to be dependent on its mother if the mother worked long enough under social security to be fully insured. A previous requirement that the woman worker also have social security credit for very recent work (unless it could be shown that she had furnished more than 1/2 the child's support) has been removed. The changed rule applies in retirement and death cases as well. The revision now makes the requirements for dependency on a mother the same as those by which children formerly were deemed dependent on a father.

Q – My wife and I are separated. Could I get a higher social security payment when I retire if she didn't get any wife's payment?

A – No, your payment is the same whether your wife receives benefits or not. The wife's benefit is payable in addition to any benefits the wage earner receives.

Q – I see my home town doctor regularly for control of my heart condition, but go to a doctor in another state about once every two months for another condition. I know I have to file my medical insurance claim for his service in the other state, but do I have to meet the $50 deductible there as well as in the state where I live?

A – No - only one medical insurance deductible must be met in a year - regardless of where services are obtained.

Q. i have continued to work since i filed for social security retirement benefits. Will these additional earnings be considered in cetting my benefit amount?

A. Yes, if your current earnings are sufficient to raise your overall averable, your benefit amount will be increased automatically.

Q. I have never been able to get a birth certificate because none was made when i was born. I recently visited my birth place and found a record at the church which shows I was baptized when I was thirteen weeks old. Would that record help prove my age for social security?

A. The record you describe is excellent evidence of your age and nothing more would be required.

Q – I am enrolled in both parts of Medicare. My doctor gives me a shot every two weeks and prescribes medicine I take at home for high blood pressure. Will Medicare pay for these medicines?

A – Medicare will pay most of the cost of the shots given by your doctor or any other medication he administers. However, the prescription medicine you take at home is not covered under Medicare.

Q. My wife and I are both 25 and are both working. When we retire she can get benefits only as my wife, so what good does it do for her to pay social security taxes?

A. First, if she works long enough to be insured, she will be eligible for a benefit on her own record. If she retired at 62, she would be able to collect

No Trains Running

Onlookers last Wednesday watched railroad tracks disappear into the water as the James River overflowed into the Gladstone C & O Train yard. Three to four hundred coal cars were in the yard, plus numerous engines and other equipment, all getting a most unwelcome water bath. By Tuesday trains were once again running west, but bridge damage and loss of tracks to the east prevented trains from proceeding toward Richmond.
